SUMMARY

A. Our Institution

Aliah University- a State University under the Department of Minority Affairs and Madrasah Education, Government of West Bengal- came into existence through the Aliah University Act (Act XXVII of 2007) passed by the West Bengal legislative Assembly. The Act came into force on 5 April 2008. Its parent Institution, however, was Calcutta Mohomedan College or Calcutta Madrasah or Aliah Madrasah established by the British Governor-General Warren Hastings in 1780. The newly-upgraded University started its glorious journey from the 2008-09 academic session with the aim to promote a symbiosis of heritage and modernization here through the participation and cooperation of people irrespective of race, creed, or class.

B. Concept Note on Workshop and Seminar:

The move towards the transformation in instructional design practices in 21st-century education resulting from the advancement of information technology is critically required. It serves to enhance the quality of educational practices whilst creating an inspiring learning environment for learners, giving them an opportunity to determine their own learning activities as far as the learner-centered approach is in practice. Much effort has been spent in providing e-learning applications to the learners, tools, and strategies for teachers. However, not much effort has been done in “Connecting the Dots” - integrating elements and requirements of the current educational needs, fulfilling the nation’s educational policies and aspirations into a mechanism or tool that helps teachers to have a wider perspective in the process of designing and sustaining the instructions creatively, systematically, practically and professionally. Thus the introduction of The Collaborative Instructional Design System (CIDS) as a move towards the transformation in instructional design practices will probably provide a solution to the above issues.

In this workshop participants will have a hands-on experience of designing a lesson using CIDS application online.

Instructional Strategies play an important role in the effectiveness of teaching-learning process. A number of instructional strategies are being adopted to make teaching-learning psychological and scientific suited to the diverse needs of the learners. The Seminar is expected to enlighten all on contemporary instructional strategies in the teaching-learning process.

C. Aim

The hands-on session of the workshop and the seminar will benefit teachers, education administrators, research scholars as well as stakeholders for both schools and higher institutions in developing an option for educationalist in fulfilling the current approaches in online instructional designing and in gaining knowledge on contemporary instructional strategies. CIDS is a mechanism/tool in providing a new dimension at engaging teachers and other professional learning communities to be collaboratively involved in the 21st-century learning, facilitating and preparing learners to the Fourth Industrial Revolution – IR4.0 while facing the challenges of the newly emerging smart Society 5.0.

D. Objective

The objectives of the workshop and Seminar are:

- i. Participants will be able to understand the basic structure of the 21st-century learning skills for integration in their instructional planning process
- ii. Participants will understand the principles of Instructional Design as part of the field or domain in education technology.
- iii. Participants will understand the concept of The Collaborative Instructional Design System (CIDS) and will be able to apply its basic features as a mechanism or tool in the instructional planning process systematically and professionally in their daily teaching practices.
- iv. Participants will be able to design 1 instructional planning at the macro level (weekly/topical) and at the micro level (Daily Lesson Plan – DLP)
- v. Major objective of the Seminar is to cater to the diverse psychological needs of the learners in keeping with the modern trends in teaching-learning process.
